DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 USC §103(a). This rejection is set forth in the prior Office action mailed on November 19, 2009.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed on May 19, 2010 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. For the reasons indicated in office action mailed on November 19, 2009.

As to applicants' arguments that there are more steps, besides just the dry grinding, which are not cited in the cited main reference, such as the pressing and the drying of the pulp. While this is true, this is also part of the "dry grinding," since the water of the pulp needs to be removed, which is usually done by pressing the pulp and the heat drying it, if the refining/grinding were done to the dry fiber/web. The examiner is not denying that the extra steps would increase the production cost and that one of ordinary skill in the art might not consider such extra steps for economical reasons, especially when the refined product needs to re-slurried;¹ however, one of ordinary skill in the art would definitely appreciate that it is technologically feasible. A combination of reference teachings may be obvious in the technological sense even though business or economic considerations would previously have counseled against such a combination. In re Farenkopf, 713 F2d 714; 219 USPQ 1.

Also applicants argue that the secondary reference, Blomqvist, teaches that the fiber can get burnt in the process. Yet he's referring to the prior art, not to his invention.

The examiner is willing to withdraw the rejections if applicants can show evidence of unexpected results in the use of re-hydrated fibers as opposed to the use of non re-slurried of the cited primary references.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

¹ Yet again, the dried product can have some economical advantages, such as easy storage and handling, and for use in the dry market.
